DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-40 are pending in this application.

Specification

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

It is noted that the claimed invention makes no mention of a recoat. The examiner suggests amending the title to reflect same.

On p.1 line 10, the applicant is invited to update the application to a US Serial Number.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 2 and 5, it is not clear what the difference is between a plasma and a corona discharge. The examiner believes that there is no difference. If the applicant agrees, particular attention should be paid attention to claims 24-26 and 27-29.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wojnarowski (5,888,884). Wojnarowski discloses a method of forming an array of devices on a substrate (col.1 lines 6-14). In particular, a semiconductor wafer has a plurality of device active regions which is coated with an insulating layer which is subsequently separated using a dicing saw (col.4 lines 5-24). The insulating coating can be deposited by CVD and can be PARLENETM, paraxylene, DLC, and inorganic oxides (col.7 lines 16-28). The insulating materials is subsequently removed (lines 29-36). However, the reference fails to specifically teach a micromechanical device.

It is noted that the array can be a variety of structures including a micromechanical device (col.1 lines 15-21). Given such a teaching, one skilled in the art would reasonably expect that the Wojnarowski's process could be utilized for a micromechanical device. Hence, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to utilize a micromechanical device because of the reasons indicated.

In claims 2-40, the applicant requires different materials and different excitation sources. The materials have been addressed above. With respect to the excitation source, it is noted that the reference clearly teaches a CVD process. One skilled in the art would realize that CVD can encompass plasma CVD, thermal CVD, hot filament CVD, etc. These techniques have certain advantages and disadvantages including throughput vs thermal budget. It would have been obvious to utilize any CVD technique given the teaching of the above reference with the expectation of obtaining the known benefits.

Field et al. (5,882,532), Yuan et al. (6,509,574) have been provided for additional information.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-40 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-45 of copending Application No. 10/038791. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the difference between a solid overcoat and a liquid overcoat is an obvious variation.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
